COUNTY TAX LEVY FOR ENSUING YEAR

Was Fixed by the County Board Prior to Adjournment Yesterday Afternoon.

After deliberations lasting four days, during which time a large volume of important business was disposed of, the county board of supervisors adjourned yesterday afternoon to meet again on Tuesday, Jan. 11, at two o'clock. Chairman L. E. Gettle expressed his appreciation of the careful attention given to the work and the spirit of co-operation which had enabled the supervisors to handle the unusually large amount of important matters brought up for their consideration in record-breaking time.

Poor Districts Unchanged.
George Seegmiller was named to succeed himself as poor commissioner in the northern district and the salary for his position was raised to $150 per year, or $37.50 a month, the same as that paid to the same office in the northern district. The plan to add a tier of five towns to his district did not meet with favor and was dropped.

The committee on salaries recommended Mike Mabel C. Lee for his excellent services as deputy county clerk and on their recommendation it was voted to raise his salary to $20 a month, beginning with the first of the year.

District Attorney Fisher was instructed to begin action to compel the cities of Janesville and Beloit to pay the money due from saloon licenses. One half of this amount, according to law, should have been turned over to the county by Oct. 1. The same official was also instructed to recover from Beloit the county's share of the interurban railway tax.

As a memorial to his son Oscar, who died recently, Baron Albert de Rothschild of Vienna gave to the Jewish community of that city 10,000 kronen, and a like sum to the municipal government, the amounts to be applied to charitable work. He gave also 200,000 kronen for educational purposes, in the department of mathematics and astronomy, saying in the memorandum which accompanied the amount that these branches had been neglected because the late Oscar de Rothschild had always taken a deep interest in them.

MAGNIFICENT OFFER TO STIMULATE SALE OF CHRISTMAS STAMPS

Milwaukee Concern Gives Prices Worth Thousands in Anti-Tuberculosis Fund Campaign.

Milwaukee, Nov. 13.—The Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association has received and accepted a magnificent offer from the American Air Cleaning Co., of Milwaukee.

Aero vacuum cleaning systems for schoolhouses, to be given as prizes for two separate competitions in Milwaukee and the state in the work of selling 3,000,000 Christmas stamps during the campaign opening Nov. 29 and closing December 31.

The association is now arranging details for the competitions among cities of the state and one for Milwaukee, with vacuum cleaning systems as prizes for selling the most stamps in proportion to population or school attendance.

These systems cost from $700 to $8,000, according to the size of the building to be equipped. The offer includes installation, all expenses, piping, and a course of instruction for the school janitor. The Aero system is the standard of the world and is already in use in the Madison high school, St. John's military academy, St. John's cathedral institute in Milwaukee, schools at Clinton, Green Bay and Milwaukee.

The competition will be so arranged that every city or school is given an equal chance of winning the prizes. If a city of 2,000 sells stamps in the proportion of 20 for each inhabitant, for instance, and a city of 25,000 sells only 19 for each inhabitant, the smaller city wins the prize. The exact details will be announced later.

P. J. Matchette, vice president and general manager of the American Air Cleaning Co., has always taken great interest in the anti-tuberculosis cause, and his invention of the vacuum cleaning system is regarded as an important step in the prevention of consumption, as it solves the dust problem, which is recognized as one of the worst breeders of disease known.

The Christmas stamp committee was almost overwhelmed by the magnificent gifts and believes that with prizes valued at thousands of dollars, enough interest should be stimulated to make the sale of the required 3,000,000 stamps possible.

The gifts add another important consideration to purchasers of Wisconsin Christmas stamps. Besides bringing a penny into the anti-tuberculosis fund and teaching a following the perils of tuberculosis when affixed to a letter or package, the purchaser of a Christmas stamp now receives a "bonus" for a school in the state and one in Milwaukee in the direction of winning a prize that will result in reducing the danger of disease in these schools and the hundreds of homes that pour their children into them, for the school is a "clearing house" for disease.

The Gazette will be glad to order all stamps needed in Janesville.

CLARENCE LENNON IS SURE HE WAS CLUBBED

Report That He Was Lying in Entry-Way of McDonald's Restaurant Appears to Have Been Erroneous.

Clarence Lennon insists that his left eye was blackened by Ex-Patrolman William Mason's club about five o'clock Friday morning. He says that he was on his way to McDonald's restaurant to get a cup of coffee when the officer accosted him on East Milwaukee street near the bakery and after passing the time of day struck him without warning. He says he did not visit the restaurant as he had originally intended but yielded to the persuasions of "Davy" Griffin to go direct to the shop. Clarence McDonald, who was in charge of the restaurant at that time says that Lennon came in there about five o'clock; that he seemed to be somewhat under the influence of liquor; that he sat out in front for a time; that Officer Mason came along and told him to move on, and that the black eye must have been acquired sometime after Lennon visited the restaurant. The report that he was lying in the entry-way Mr. McDonald characterizes as erroneous.

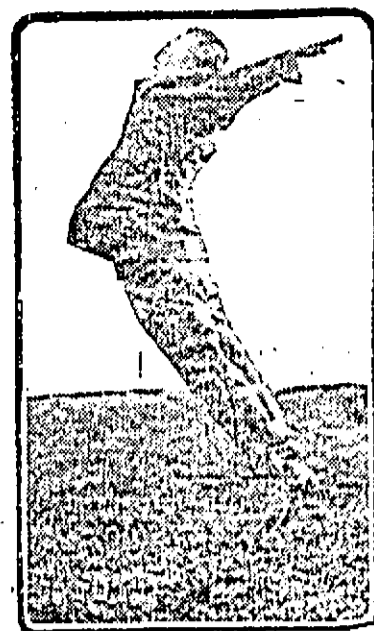

Lennon certainly received a hard blow somewhere during his wanderings but as he is so busy about his visit to the restaurant it is possible that he did not have any conflict with the police after all. Former Officer Mason was surprised when told of the charge yesterday and stated that he ordered Lennon to move on, which he did. Lennon has had other encounters with policemen in the past and may have imagined that he was beaten up while receiving his injury in some other way. He however insists that Mason clubbed him.

A New Electric Clock.

An interesting electric clock, run by a single dry cell and quite independent of external connection, has just been put on the market in England. A heavy balance wheel is kept in motion by an electric magnet, mounted diametrically across it. As the balance wheel swings against the action of the coiled spring, a stud on the axle makes contact with a light spring, this completing the electric circuit and energizing the magnet, which acts for a moment upon the balance wheel. This impulse is given once every four seconds. It is said that a dry cell will run the clock for 1,000 consecutive hours. The movement is noiseless, and the clock may be placed in any position without interfering with its running.—Youth's Companion.

Aeronauts Awarded Prizes.

The prize is awarded every three years for the most remarkable contribution to the cause of human progress during that period.

"BOB" RAY THE FAMOUS CHEER LEADER OF ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY.

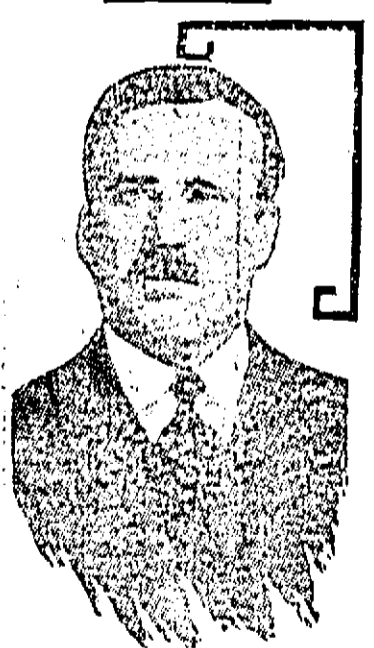

Champaign, Ill.—"Bobby" Ray, the cheer leader of Illinois university, lays claim to the title of being the original "live wire" of the United States. When he first entered the university he won recognition in leading the freshmen yell. Since then he has been a person of note here at the university. "Bobby's" prize feat was the day he led Illinois rooters to the game with Indiana university. It was largely due to the enthusiasm created by this young wonder that turned the tide of victory. He is a veritable bundle of nerves and when leading the college yell it seems he is not an iota less than more than a minute at a time.

Leo McLung, the new treasurer of the United States

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—In the naming of Leo McLung as treasurer of the United States, President Taft has again shown his loyalty to his alma mater. Mr. McLung has been treasurer of Yale since December 15, 1901. During this time he has displayed marked ability to deal with problems of finance. He is well known on banking, having spent several years studying the money problems at home and abroad. The new treasurer is 39 years old and a representative of the type of young men who do things. He was born at Knoxville, Tenn., entered Phillips Exeter in 1880, graduating four years later with honors. He entered Yale studying with the degree of master of arts. His collegiate training was supplemented by foreign travels. Before becoming treasurer of Yale Mr. McLung won enviable reputation as a railroad man. He is unmarried.

Beautiful Structures Dreams Realized.

Every beautiful structure is the dream of the architect. St. Paul's is but a dream of Christopher Wren. Without the dreamer the world would be a dull place. Dreamers lifted it out of the darkness of barbarism and ignorance and placed it in the white light of civilization and knowledge.

CALL MME. STEINHIL MURDERER OF FAURE

Reactionary Papers Insinuate Pointedly That Woman Killed Former President of Republic.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The reactionary newspapers insinuate pointedly that Mme. Steinhil murdered Felix Faure, president of the republic, who, as has been stated, often, died while she was present.

These newspapers, including the Patrie, say openly that Mme. Steinhil was the murderer's agent of the Dreyfus party in dispatching President Faure; that she was engaged by friends of Major Dreyfus to inveigle Faure, to charm him and to end his existence because he opposed the reopening of the Dreyfus case and the revelation of the then captain's trial and sentence.

A coincidence, a sequence of events, is being published to show that the ghost of the Dreyfus trial stalks in the present tragedy.

The entire eight day's session of the Steinhil murder case was taken up with an impassioned plea by Advocate General Trouard Rieff for the conviction of the woman who is charged with having killed her husband and her stepmother, and by reason of the fact that Mme. Steinhil's counsel, M. Aubin, is yet to be heard, doubt has arisen whether the fate of the woman will be given into the hands of the jury today.

The prosecutor has showed neither pity nor mercy in his address to the jury. He painted the accused woman in the blackest of colors—as the most wicked type of woman, a born liar, and as one whose whole life, before and after the crime, justified the presumption of her guilt. He developed the theory that after the rich and generous lover, Chouanard, abandoned her in 1907, Mme. Steinhil realized that she was almost at the end of her tether, and said that when she got Maurice Borderel in her clutches she was determined to hold him, even at the price of murder.

Ransom R. Cable, Veteran Promoter, Is Victim of Brief Illness.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Ransom R. Cable, one of the builders of the Rock Island railway system, and one of the best-known railroad men in the country, died at the residence of his son, Benjamin F. Cable, after an illness of only a week.

Mr. Cable is survived by a widow and three children. The latter are: Benjamin F. Cable, general counsel of the Rock Island road; Hiram F. Cable and Mrs. Edward Pope. Funeral services will be held in Rock Island, Ill., Sunday.

A Christmas Suggestion

Among the many confusing holiday situations there are a few that deserve a little serious thought beforehand.

No gift is more suitable than a good piano; yet to leave this purchase to the last moment invites two unnecessary evils—a hasty selection and an uncertain decision. Besides this, often a little more money than necessary is put into other gifts with a consequent lack of funds upon coming to the princely gift of the piano and as a result only too often, the promise, made in all sincerity is not redeemed.—The children go without their piano.

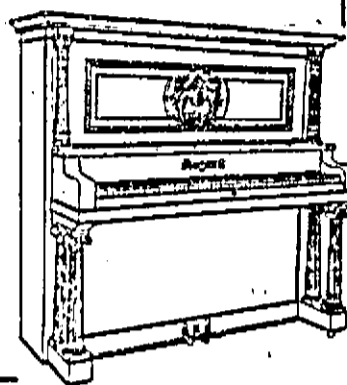

This need not be. If you have any intention of getting a piano for Christmas and desire to get it by monthly payments, come into our store now, avoid the rush and push of the holiday season. Sit down and have our entire stock of pianos demonstrated for you, and then, after careful consideration, if you are satisfied, close the deal with an arrangement for a Christmas delivery.

We'll pay the Santa Claus if you make the arrangements in advance. To do so will remove a great deal of unnecessary strain that could not be avoided where everything is left until the last moment.

CHICAGO OPENS ARMS TO O'CONNOR.

[By T. P. O'CONNOR.] Chicago, Ill.—Ireland will be free in 1921, I wish my pen had power to convey to my readers my sense of the extraordinary personality of M. J. Ryan, who presided at our monster eastern meeting, and of the other men who are aiding our cause. The Boston meeting and my seeing M. J. Ryan recalls an incident in the life of Lloyd George. When Lloyd George went to Birmingham during the Boer war 100,000 men in the mob had sworn to lynch him, and they would have done so, the only method of escape was to put on the tunic and helmet of a police officer and leave the hall in the midst of a body of police.

As he emerged to the street a great blaze of electric light suddenly fell upon his face. Another Welshman, but an enemy and one of the mob that wanted to kill him, caught sight of him. This Welshman recognized under the helmet and in spite of the police tunic the wonderful eyes of Lloyd George—brilliant and expressive; with a yell he pointed him out to the mob. Fortunately the informer was disheveled and was kicked into the gutter and Lloyd George was able to escape. M. J. Ryan would be similarly detected under any disguise; his eyes would betray him.

In his native Philadelphia Ryan's hold over his own people is irresistible. They have something approaching fanaticism in their admiration for him he is reserving their attachment. Brilliant clever impressive a moving orator, with a clear logical mind great courage and self-devotion that is equal to any call upon it, a combination of extraordinary tact and extraordinary sweetness, yet a vehement fierceness of temper of revolt when he is confronted by the meanness of disloyalty. M. J. Ryan is a man made to rule men.

The Boston meeting is an excellent illustration of the way money is being raised in the United States. In the midst of the scene, wild, turbulent, inspiring, touching, there suddenly came a remarkable episode. Ryan's face had been glowing for half an hour as he saw the wonderful tide rolling up to him from this tremendous audience but suddenly he stopped; and there came over his face a look of even greater triumph than anything that had yet appeared there.

"This," he said, as he ran his eye over a small bit of paper, "this is splendid."

Then he paused; I think really because he was too moved to find utterance; and then he read out this remarkable document: "Mary G. Fitzpatrick, $100." Then Ryan paused; and there was a cheer; and then he read next:

"Brasie S. Fitzpatrick, $100."

Another pause another big cheer.

—Then—

"Francis M. Fitzpatrick, $100. Then Paul J. Fitzpatrick, $100," and then "Thomas M. Fitzpatrick, $100," and finally "William J. Fitzpatrick, $100."

It was the wife the children, boys and girls of Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, the husband and father, who is the treasurer of the organization, doing their share for the good cause.

"I wish," said Ryan, "my friends, Fitzpatrick, had more children," and the audience laughed, and cheered, and cheered, and laughed yet again.

REBUKE COUCHED IN SATIRE.

The Jewish Advocate has this to say as to the recent turf victory of Baron de Rothschild: "Baron Maurice de Rothschild, whose horse won the grand prix at the French derby, incidentally gathered in the sum of $75,000 as his share of the winnings."

The poor man no doubt needs the money—a fact that explains his violation of the ethical law against gambling.

"The Car for Service"

Studebaker-EMF "30"

Reasons Why You Should Buy It.

Because it is the peer of any car selling under $2000.00.

Because of its light weight (due to elimination of cast iron and the substitution of high grade steel) it is more economical to operate. (Did you ever count the cost of tires?)

Because the Studebaker Co. sell parts for replacement at prices not arbitrarily made but pro rated on costs, being one-third of what any other company marketing a similar car charges.

The speed and power of the car and its flexibility places it above any of its competitors.

These cars are demanded by the motor wire and have always been sold ahead. If you want a car see us and arrange for the first open date we have. Our cars are allotted so many per month, we get there if we sell them—no more and no less; if we don't sell them they go to open some new territory. The United States is large and there are automobile agents who did not get in line waiting for their chance to get these cars to introduce them and get in line another year.

A satisfied customer is our best advertiser.

We aim to make you one.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"Sixty years ago a poor Indian farmer boy was married. After the ceremony was over he turned to the parson and said: 'Here is two dollars. It is every cent in the world I have. Take it—all I want is an even start in the world!'"

"A few weeks ago I stood on the biggest farm in the world and let my eye lose itself in the distance of a six-thousand-acre cornfield. The undulating corn riding up the slope of a hill and dropping softly over made me think of some placid green sea. Turning to David Rankin I looked at him and marveled at the romance of a mere farmer."

"How did you do it?" I asked of the world's most extensive farmer.

"Early and late," he answered, smiling.

"There are other men in the world who own more land than David Rankin of Tarkio, Missouri, but they are not farmers. There are men who have brought the money to the farm. Every acre in David Rankin's farm in Atchison county, Missouri, produces 'I don't know sheep, nor pasture cattle,' he explained simply. 'I farm.'"

"In the midst of the great Missouri-Illinois corn-belt are his farms. Cattle and corn are the products. Land on all sides sells at one hundred dollars an acre and up. David Rankin has 25,640 acres of such land devoted to raising corn and feeding cattle."

"Although eighty-four years old David Rankin is light of step, quick of movement, and enjoys good health. It is evident that his regular life and moderate living is the explanation. In all his work he is systematic and runs his many acres on schedule plan. Farming to him is a business and not merely a way of eking out an existence."

The Technical World Magazine for December contains this little scrap of current history which demonstrates so clearly that all the great captains of industry are not monopolized by the industrial world in the field of manufacture and transportation.

The boy whose last five dollars went to pay the preacher for a marriage ceremony would not ordinarily be considered a good financier, but it is fair to assume that the prize he won in the great lottery of wedlock was worth the price. While the little sketch does not mention the name of Mrs. Rankin, she was doubtless a helpmate during the long years of struggle which resulted in success.

But there were other factors which entered into the problem, making it possible to redeem the thousands of acres of wild land which the Rankins accumulated in an early day.

This land, worth today $100 per acre, was bought for a song, and much of the wealth represented is due to increased value, not because the soil has improved but because of transportation facilities which placed the western farm on the map and put it in touch with the world's great markets.

One windy day in the spring of 1880 a party of Janesville men stood in the shelter of a tent on the prairie of South Dakota. The town site, which is now the city of Huron, was occupied by three families in tents, and the North-Western road, 50 miles away, was approaching from the east, laying track at the rate of a mile a day.

In 60 days the first train pulled in with its load of pioneer settlers, and the next year the road went on 150 miles west to the Missouri river across a waste of unsurveyed prairie. All kinds of claims were filed on the land, and thousands of families flocked to the new Colorado to secure a farm for the asking.

Then came the drought and during the next 10 years the railroad carried out more people than it carried in. Thousands of half-improved farms were sold under the hammer, and millions of dollars lost by investors, but the railroad continued to operate at heavy loss, influenced by the same faith which prompted the building of a line in advance of civilization.

What are the results? Today the vast expanse of prairie blossoms like a rose, $50 an acre is the standard price of land, and crops are so abundant that cars can not be secured to handle the freight.

If age has not dimmed the mental vision of Mr. Rankin he will admit that aside from the increased value of his land the railroads have made a market for his corn and stock which otherwise would have been impossible.

These great corporations, which have done so much to open up the country and make the waste places inhabitable, have been made the foot-ball of modern reformers, during the past few years, and all sorts of drastic laws have been passed to cripple them in their work.

The time was when the press of the country was accused of being controlled by the railroads because of passes and courtesies extended, but that is a thing of the past. The papers today pay the same as everybody else for transportation, and when a corporation is defended it is because justice demands it.

It is an easy thing to fight a railroad because it never talks back, and but little brain is required to evolve an argument when the other side is not represented. Some people grow eloquent in denouncing the weather, for the same reason, but the weather can stand it better than the railroads.

What have the railroads done for the country? They have doubled and quadrupled the price of every acre of land from New York to San Francisco. They have established thousands of new towns which have developed industries, giving employment to an army of workmen.

They have brought the east and west, the north and south, so close together that the products of every section are furnished to all the people at practically a uniform price. The fruits of California and Florida can be bought in any small town anywhere as cheap as they can be purchased in Los Angeles or Jacksonville, and all because of the great railway system of the country.

Mr. Rankin is only one of a million farmers scattered through the west, who has been made rich through the advantages furnished by the nation's unparalleled transportation facilities—perhaps not as rich as the man with a 5,000-acre cornfield, but in easy circumstances; richer and more independent in every way than the average businessman.

Mr. Rankin staid by the farm when he was a boy. The lure of the city did not fascinate him, and he was content with the simple outdoor life. The towns and cities are crowded with young men from the country who imagine that city life is a life of ease and a constant round of pleasure. It's a mistaken notion.

The experience of one of these boys is thus related by an exchange, and the advice following is well worth heeding:

The towns and cities are crowded with young men from the country who imagine that city life is a life of ease and a constant round of pleasure. It's a mistaken notion.

The experience of one of these boys is thus related by an exchange, and the advice following is well worth heeding:

"There is a world of pathos in the story of Rudolph Juul, son of a Minnesota preacher, sentenced in Chicago to serve a four months' prison term for stealing a valise—a valise which he afterward sold for $125.

"Legally the sentence was a just and rightful one. It may deter other hungry men and boys from taking things belonging to people who always had and probably always will have their three square meals a day.

"This is Rudolph Juul's crime, in his own words: 'I had a little money and I began a search for work that I never got. My funds rapidly diminished until only a few nickels lay between me and starvation—the last of those I spent for a cup of coffee. Then for forty-eight hours I had not a bite to eat. I could no longer stand the awful pangs of hunger. I stole a valise. I would have stolen anything.'"

"To all country boys who dream of gaining wealth and fame in a great city, I say, stay away!"

"We do not believe it's any use to advise ambitious country boys to 'stay away.' As long as country boys are raised on the farm they will crowd to the large cities.

"Many of these boys will get into the Rudolph Juul class—no work and no money class. They will see but two roads before them, starvation and theft.

"The dreams of wealth and fame fade. It becomes too late for these boys of shattered dreams to 'stay away.'"

"Don't you unfed and homeless fellows think that it's better to go back to the old home before you get clear down to the bottom of the Rudolph Juul class?"

"Go back to the winter plowing and the wood pile. Build up new ambitions and dream new dreams.

"Go back to a waiting mother's arms. She needs you and she wants you to come home. Don't make her wait until you have paid the penalty for your first crime.

"Thanksgiving day would be a mighty good time to get out of the Rudolph Juul class.

"Thanksgiving day is 'back home.'"

THE PRESS COMMENT.

Broom Prices Up.

According to the Neenah Times it is going to cost money to keep the house clean, by announcing that the new broom not only sweeps clean, but soars in cost. The price of brooms has doubled in the past week.

A Good Scheme.

According to the Milwaukee Sentinel Wisconsin banks are to be heavily guarded until after the snow flies. Christmas will take care of the deposits after that.

Here is a Problem.

The Madison Democrat wants to know: "If we must abolish football because two players were killed, what shall we do with the stepladder, which has slain a regiment?"

Foolish Gossip.

The Antigo Journal suggests that an ex-Governor W. D. Hoard's name is being used more and more in connection with the United States senate. It is not at all improbable that he will be brought into the field by his friends.

True Enough.

The Eau Claire Leader hits the nail on the head when it says that there is nothing much left for Cook, McGovern, Morris, Barker, Hudnall, David Douglas or other gubernatorial candidates. Their platform might well be limited to "I want the office!"

Lewis is Honest.

Lewis, the backman who wants to be governor, according to the Milwaukee News, simply stands there. "Captain Lewis wants the office, if there is anything that he has overlooked in the platform it is through no fault of his own. His motto is: 'We strive to please.' There he stands as firm as a rock and as bold as a lion."

Sounds Silly.

The Milwaukee Record prints the following that sounds very silly and not good as it thinks when it says of Cummins: "It sounds good, doesn't it, to hear Senator Cummins say for the insurgents: 'We accept the challenge (of the standpatters) and we ask no quarter and shall give none.' Just as bitter as that terrible demagogue, La Follette, who is not to be invited to that White House conference!"

Castors All Right.

The Fond du Lac Commonwealth says that, "Now that Capt. William Mitchell Lewis has shed his castor into the ring, the gubernatorial campaign may be allowed to proceed. With Lieutenant-Governor Strango and Captain Lewis as starters the rest of the proposed field should commence to manifest anxiety as to just what may be their relative positions in the get-away."

Good, Sound Advice.

The Wausau Record-Herald states that a young man who can write so that his letters can be read, who can spell correctly, and who can express his ideas succinctly will find ready openings in commercial life. A critic claims that this desirable result is seldom attained by the educational courses in the public schools. Even State Superintendent Cary says that fifty-five per cent of the graduates are deficient in the rudiments of education.

Nor What They Cost.

The Madison Journal says: "Much has been accomplished by the enforcement of pure food laws, but it is still true that things to eat are not always what they seem. Recently members of the Illinois state food commission noticed that 'smoked salmon' was being sold in Chicago at very low prices. They knew that most of the salmon was supposed to come from the Columbia river and to cost so much as to make it a sort of luxury to the poor. So they investigated and found that carp from the Fox river had been given a bath of pink paint and treated with what the dealers called 'liquid smoke.' Then it was sold as salmon."

Heart to Heart Talks.

THE GIRL WHO GIGGLES.

"A whistling girl and a crowing hen," according to the adage of a former generation, are both foredoomed.

But a worse fate was reserved for the giggling girl.

In those days a smile must be struggled and a giggle must be gagged, especially in company.

It was the invariable rule that young persons were "to be seen and not heard," so that the girl who would be proper must keep a straight face.

We are not so rigid with girls nowadays. Nevertheless there are some straitlaced people who appear to suffer delicious cramps at the first squeak of a girlish giggle.

A letter from a young one is promptly frowned upon.

Just why it is difficult to say, "A giggle is suppressed mirth giving way under pressure, and mirth is good for young creatures."

Your true giggle is a gregarious thing. It flourishes best where two or three girls are gathered. It becomes contagious. And it thrives best where hilarity must be kept down to the limit. The more one tries to sit on a giggle the more it is disposed to bob up and out.

How a healthy giggle gurgles! Listen to that bunch of happy young things bubbling over in spontaneous but suppressed glee. Their risibles just must rise, like the lid on a teakettle.

But somebody elevates a nose to say that the girls who thus giggle to one another are "silly or shallow."

Somewhat frivolous they may be—but in the frivolous age—but not necessarily shallow.

The giggle in a healthy girl is a natural vent for her surplus vitality, as a whoop is the vent for a boy.

Moreover, did you ever know of a giggling girl who was not kind hearted and companionable and sympathetic?

Did you ever know a gifted giggler who was a girl grouch?

All hail the girl who giggles! This would be a sad world without her. Let her throw off her surplus life and joy and merriment in her chosen way.

All too soon will that bubbling mirth be hushed by the sorrows of serious womanhood.

Let her giggle. Gumption will come later.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

AN HOUR FOR DINNER.

Don't hurry while you eat. Dyspepsia is due to hurried eating more than to all other causes, and we are "a race of dyspeptics." We eat too much because we eat too fast. Especially do we eat too much protoid food (meat, eggs, fish, etc.) because we eat too fast. Experiments made at Yale and elsewhere show that as one learns to eat slowly he desires less meat and the appetite, and becomes more normal otherwise. The man who has not an hour for dinner should not eat till he can spare an hour. A great Frenchman said that the only time he gained was the time he lost, and this is especially true of eating. Better combine the walk or the reading of the current news and light literature with the meal than to "save" a half hour for each from eating. The quick lunch is one of the few American institutions of which we cannot be proud.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON

(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

You know the man of kindly air? You run across him everywhere. He seems to think his hat a crown; he talks as though he handed down most all the wisdom that the world has gathered in a thousand years. His dignity is most sublime; to joke about him is a crime, and when you meet him it is wise to lift your hat and close your eyes; and it would please him if you'd just lie down and grovel in the dust. That is the wisest counsel I say, but I'm a foolish-minded jay, and when I meet the swelled-up man, I jolly him the best I can; I would to him the best result that he's but mortal, after all. He's naught but bones and legs and trunk, and lungs and lights, and kindred junk; he breathes the same old gummy air that's breathed by hoboes everywhere. And when he dies, as die he must, he'll make as cheap a grade of dust as any Richard Roe in town; the monument that holds him down may tell his glories for a while, but folks will read it with a smile, and say: "That dead one must have thought that he was Johnny on the spot, when he was on this earthly shore; I never heard of him before."

Numbers of persons exhibit fear of being buried alive by making especial kinds of requests in their wills, of which the following are examples: John Mount Price of Illington directed that four days after his death two skilled surgeons should receive $25 each to perform such operations on his body as would kill him in case he were yet alive. The Viscount Carras Linn directed that his body should be watched by his heirs until decomposition had set in.

Just why it is difficult to say, "A giggle is suppressed mirth giving way under pressure, and mirth is good for young creatures."

Your true giggle is a gregarious thing. It flourishes best where two or three girls are gathered. It becomes contagious. And it thrives best where hilarity must be kept down to the limit. The more one tries to sit on a giggle the more it is disposed to bob up and out.

How a healthy giggle gurgles! Listen to that bunch of happy young things bubbling over in spontaneous but suppressed glee. Their risibles just must rise, like the lid on a teakettle.

But somebody elevates a nose to say that the girls who thus giggle to one another are "silly or shallow."

Somewhat frivolous they may be—but in the frivolous age—but not necessarily shallow.

FOOTBALL GAME IS THE LURE OFFERED

Many Janesville People Are in Madison This Afternoon Watching Gridiron Contest.

Between one hundred and fifty and one hundred and seventy-five Janesville football enthusiasts are in Madison today to witness the great game played there today by the university players of Minnesota and Wisconsin. The great share of these, about sixty-five in all, went up on the train leaving here on the St. Paul road at 10:30. Thirty-five traveled over that line on the Prairie du Chien train at eight o'clock. Others, who were unable to go, including a number of the high school students and a part of the Beloit football team and rooters, who were here this morning, went up on the noon train over the Northwestern road. A few spent the night in Madison.

Besides those from this city there were a number from other cities who came here to take trains to the Capital City. Among these were delegations from Beloit and Rockford and a number from the smaller towns nearby. Crisp banners, flags and handbills were numerous and the general topic of conversation about the depot was football.

Among those from here who are in Madison for the game are: Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Carle, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sweeney and Miss Blanche Sweeney, Miss Christie and Miss Joanne Galbreath, Mr. and Mrs. G. U. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris, Miss Marjorie Mount, Miss Ethel Field, Miss Mildred Doty, Miss Ethel Walker, Miss Edna Murdoch, George Shapton, Frank Jackson, Stanley Dunseld, L. A. Avery, H. S. Gilkey, A. P. Lovejoy, Harvey Hall, Edward Carpenter, George King, Fred Seville, P. E. Birch, Phil Kearney, C. H. Weirick, H. C. Hull, Prof. Knudsen, William V. Mumrill, S. D. Tullman, William McNell, Al. Plater, C. J. Hendricks, John Shover, Lee Brownell, H. E. McCoy, Clarence Wilson, Clarence McKee, Vorne Murdoch, P. B. Warr, Clarence Sutherland, Floyd Davis, James Thompson, Roy Scott, Robert Gilmore, Billy Dobney, Fred Gibbs, William Tiesman, Leo Atwood, Albert Schmitt, Raymond Patton, Bruce Jeffries, Stanley Yonke, Don Korst, James Fox, Harold Schickler, Fred Palmer, Frank Hennessey, and James Cronin.

Special Train.

BICYCLE ENTANGLEMENT.
SOMETHING OF A PUZZLER
Wheels Belonging to David Greighton and George Minard Were Exchanged and Matter Got Into Court.

Each claiming that the other had appropriated his bicycle at the Madison show last summer, David Greighton and George Minard appeared in municipal court yesterday afternoon, the former to answer to a complaint preferred by the latter. Both gave plausible versions of the incident, though it was difficult to reconcile them. It appeared that each man upon returning to the place where he had left his mount, found only the other man's wheel. "That some small boy must have borrowed bike No. 1 and returned it after the owner had appeared on the scene, found his machine missing and taken No. 2, seemed to be the only explanation. On the promise of each man to trade back the property Judge Pihel dismissed the case against Greighton.

FORMER RESIDENT IS SEEKING HIS RIGHTS

George H. Clark and Former Wife Are Fighting for Estate of His Mother-in-Law.

At Galesburg, Illinois, the first skirmish in the fight for possession of the Tenley estate took place today in proceedings instituted by Dr. Edith Norton of Chicago, daughter of Mrs. Tenley, against her former husband, George H. Clark of Beloit.

Clark formerly resided in Janesville, his present wife being Miss Edith Tenley, although now living near Beloit. Clark is charged with false imprisonment and with having kept from Mrs. Norton knowledge of her mother's death and with having prevented Mrs. Norton from seeing her mother after death.

Evidence showed that Clark, to whom Mrs. Tenley left most of her property, after the death of Mrs. Tenley represented himself as her son-in-law, took charge of the body, and arranged for the funeral at Paysonburg, but did not inform Mrs. Norton.

One of the witnesses was Circuit Clerk Whiting of Fulton county, who testified that Clark knew of the suit brought by Mrs. Norton against him in that county demanding an accounting.

REINHOLD SCHOTT DEFEATS LUMBOLY

Watertown Grappler Takes First, Second and Fourth Falls from Canadian in Jig Time.

Although outweighed at least forty pounds, Reinhold Schott of Watertown won his match and seventy-five per cent of a $200 purse from Frank Lumboly of Montreal, Canada, at the Myers Theatre last night by taking three out of four falls from his bulky opponent in 56 minutes and 5 seconds of actual wrestling time.

Schott got the first fall by a scissors and barlock in 11 minutes and 35 seconds and the second by means of the same hold in 15 minutes and 30 seconds. The third fall, however, went to the Canadian after 25 minutes of strenuous work, the veteran middleweight succumbing to a leg and bar hold. He came back strong though in the final session and took but 4 minutes to pin Lumboly's shoulders to the canvas by a scissors and bar hold.

The match, which was scheduled for nine o'clock, was started at 8:45 on account of the nonappearance of Johnny Bold of Albany, who had been slated to go in a preliminary with Fred Sweeney of Albany. Neither Schott nor Lumboly appeared to be in the best of condition. The Wisconsin man's face was lined and drawn, though he had been overtrained, while the Canadian was fat and unsteady.

The former is at his best at 175, but was four pounds under weight last night, while Lumboly, who stated that he is willing to wrestle anyone at 175, weighed 194. In addition to being forced to carry much unnecessary weight, Lumboly suffered from a bad cold which he contracted recently at Detroit and was in distress throughout the whole bout. After he had worked 25 minutes to secure the third fall, he was almost all in, but returned gamely to the mat after ten minutes' rest in order not to disappoint the spectators.

Schott, who appeared to be much the faster and trickier man of the two, was the aggressor throughout the contest. His rushing tactics kept Lumboly on the defensive almost continuously and the latter was not given a moment's rest. During the last half of the bout Lumboly weakened perceptibly and could not keep his opponent from slipping out of the holds he managed to secure. Several times he complained that Schott was using the struggle hold when a simple head hold was all that had been taken.

After the match, Lumboly, without trying to palliate his defeat, stated that he had not been in condition to put up a good fight, but would be glad to meet Schott again. John C. Nichols refereed the bout which was wired under the Police Gazette rules, pin holds, beat three falls out of five with straight hold barred, Sam Brown was timekeeper.

JANESVILLE ELEVEN LOST BY ONE POINT

Beloit High School Football Squad Beat Locals by Score of 8 to 7 at Athletic Park.

By the narrow margin of one point the high school football team lost the game at Athletic park to the Beloit squad this morning, the final score being 8 to 7. The game was very exciting, especially in the last half, when Beloit secured the points which gave her the victory. The first half ended with the Bowser City leads in the lead, 5 to 0, but in the second half Beloit made a touchdown, kicked goal and clinched the game with a safety.

Janesville made two points on a touchdown in the last half by Bullivan. Williams put the ball behind the goal by a twenty-five yard run down the field on a fake drop kick.

The field at the park was covered with puddles of muddy water which made playing anything but pleasant for the contestants and hampered them somewhat in making their plays. Beloit was very good on the forward pass, but in straight football it failed completely. Janesville, on the other hand, was not so good at the forward pass, but outshined their opponents on straight playing.

The two teams lined up as follows: Janesville. Beloit.

FINEST SCOTTISH RITE CATHEDRAL IN UNITED STATES.

Fort Wayne. "The most beautiful Scottish Rite cathedral in the United States if not in the whole world," is the way local Masons speak of the magnificent new high degree home, costing $150,000, which is to be dedicated here with impressive ceremonies on November 17. Masons from all over the country agree with this statement, too. Better Masonic temples there are, but no cathedral that compares with this one. It is declared. The reason for this is evident: to enjoy the privileges of the building one must have eighteen degrees or more. It is only because Fort Wayne is one of the strongest Scottish cities in the country that it was found possible to erect this structure. At least 1,000 prominent Masons from all over the United States will be present at the dedicatory ceremonies.

monies were will be conducted by Barton Smith, 33rd degree of Toledo, the second highest Mason in America. William Goake, 33rd degree, the highest Mason in Indiana, leader of the Scottish Rite in Fort Wayne and member of the supreme council for the United States, has charge of the arrangements for the affair.

The building was designed by Mahurin & Mahurin of this city. In the basement are bowling and billiard rooms, furnaces etc. On the first floor is a monster banquet room with seating capacity of 1,000, and huge kitchen in connection. On the second floor are the lodge and social rooms, and on the top floor is an enormous auditorium, with regulation size stage and seats arranged in Roman amphitheatre form. The dedication will be the most important higher degree Masonic event in this country in recent years.

A DESPERATE HEAVYWEIGHT PRELIMINARY.

Above photograph was taken just after the Jeffries-Johnson articles of agreement were signed. Stars mark principals. Bottles give mute testimony of the desperate nature of the preliminaries. Leading fight experts, managers and sporting men of the world are shown in the group.

New York, Nov. 3.—Just how many bottles were killed in the great heavyweight preliminary at the Albany hotel before and after Jeffries and Johnson signed articles of agreement for the greatest fight of recent years is still an absorbing Broadway mystery. A camera tells no lies as a rule, but in this particular instance there may have been several under the table along with a genuine sport or two, which are not shown in the above photograph. Each article of the agreement is said to have called for at least two rounds, one before and one after. The principals alone declined to join in this affair, ordering water and buttermilk instead of a cold one. Critchman suspects, mild mannered across drinking at park fountain, million dollar side bets, an ideal tariff measure, a jungle snake and what animal shows—these are just a few of the features of the public prints, superinduced by liberal baths from the bowl that cheers and of times inebriates. If the final battle is as fierce as this first preliminary there will be something doing July 4 that will make other flag battles look like fights between street urchins. The dark cloud at the feast and the fight seemed to grow darker and darker as the arguments became more heated. There was an occasional flash of lightning, but there was little electrical display, when Jeffries insisted upon a side bet of $20,000. For the first time since the colored heavyweight has expressed a desire to fight Jeffries, Johnson showed fear for the man he forced out of retirement. Things went along nicely and quietly when the men were drawing up the articles step by step until the side bet matter was brought up. Jeffries who says he can beat Johnson sure, called the colored fighter and stood ready to wager $20,000 on the side, this amount having been proposed by Johnson some days ago. Jeff began to talk. He said: "There's been a lot of talk about this splitting of the purse," said he. "You said in Chicago that you wanted to fight winner take all, 75 and 25, or 60 and 40. You said too, that you wanted to bet me $20,000 on the side. The way I want to fight is winner take all and I want that side bet of $20,000."

This declaration brought a cheer from the crowd. Johnson hesitated for a few seconds. "I'll fight winner take all, but I don't want that side bet. Let's bet the $5,000 we already have posted. Is that agreeable, Mr. Jeffries?" "I'd like to get that $20,000," said Jeff, grinning. "Yes, and I don't want you to get that $20,000, Mr. Jeffries," said Johnson, showing his teeth. "I'll fight you any way you say," Johnson, "winner take all." "How about it, Jeff?" said Berger. "All right, it goes," said Jim. Then Mr. Little coaxed himself into the argument. "Now hold on," said he. "I ain't going to cut any snowdrifts next winter if this fight should happen to go wrong. Let's make this thing 75 and 25." "All right," said Johnson quickly; "anything suits me." "All right," said Jeffries. "That's $5,000 we already have up—that goes as a side bet." "Yes, that goes," said Johnson. Though Johnson had flatly refused to wager over $5,000 on the side in his fight with Jeffries, the unbeaten heavyweight will try to induce the colored lad to wager $15,000 more, making the $20,000 bet.

SOCIETY GIRL WALKS 40 MILES.

Sufferer from Religious Disappointment Escapes from Asylum.

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 13.—Scantly clad, Miss Eleanor Joslin, a former Denver society girl, escaped from the Waunakee asylum and walked 40 miles to Kenosha. She made the trip in 12 hours.

Friends in Kenosha, at whose residence she knocked, took her in, bundled her into bed and summoned a physician. The girl was exhausted by her trip, but had suffered no serious harm from the exposure. She has been taken back to the asylum.

Miss Joslin made the journey clad only in shoes, stockings, a skirt and a shirt waist. Her waist and skirt were torn in shreds upon her arrival, she having crawled through fences to hide whenever she saw any one approaching along the highway. The shoes were worn through, and her feet were bleeding.

Disappointment over her parents' refusal to allow her to unite with a religious order is given as the cause of Miss Joslin's mental condition.

another diplomatic trip, this time to Italy. An important and unexpected change of itinerary has been made on the eve of Emperor Nicholas' departure for Italy. This alteration of plans was made known to the foreign diplomats today. It is understood that the change was due in part to recent criticism of the emperor in the Bavarian Landtag, but as well to other and deeper reasons which, according to the best information obtainable here, resulted in the emperor's decision to avoid Bavaria and Switzerland altogether and make a long circuit through eastern France to reach his destination.

The new route chosen is by way of Odessa, Posen, Frankfurt and Bern. The journey of nearly 2,000 miles. The earlier route planned was either by way of Munich of a short and direct route by way of Vienna, which latter the emperor determined from the first to avoid because of the bitterness growing out of the annexation of the province of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

A meeting between the emperor and the president of France during the trip is possible, though nothing official on this point can be obtained. The elimination of Switzerland from the itinerary causes no particular regret among the Russian authorities responsible for the emperor's safety as the small force of police and military in that mountainous country constitute a most serious problem of entangling the emperor's train.

Preparations for the visit of the emperor at Basel are being made with haste. The program of entertainments will include a hunting party, automobile excursions, a grand state banquet and military exercises.

Once upon a time—and this is no fairy tale—a seeker after pure business refused to pick up business that was possible to get by advertising. A traveler came along who saw the possibilities and said: "Let's here is my opportunity," and in a short time he annexed the business. You may not see any moral in this, but the cold fact remains: The advertiser got the

ARREST SUGAR MAN FOR FALSE WEIGHT

HIGH TRUST OFFICIAL INDICTED FOR COMPLICITY IN FRAUDS.

ARBUCKLE BROS. INVOLVED

Chief Rival of American Refining Company Have Been Negotiating for Payment of Big Sum to Government for Diverted Sugar Duties.

New York, Nov. 13.—James F. Dondermeyer, for more than thirty years superintendent of the Havemeyer & Elder sugar refinery in Williamsburg, the largest plant of the American Sugar Refining Company, was indicted and arrested, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government by 'false weighing of sugar. He was released on $5,000 bail and his hearing set for Monday next.

Six Others Indicted.
At the same time now indictments were found against six other American Refining employees, already awaiting trial on previously announced charges. All of them are accused of conspiracy to defraud the government by the false weighing of sugar at the Williamsburg docks on November 20, 1907.

Dondermeyer, whose resignation from his post was made known early this week, had been drawing a salary of $20,000 a year. The specific charges against Dondermeyer are that he defrauded the government out of duty to the amount of $1,034, in connection with the false entry of the 9,000-000-pound sugar cargo of the steamship Eva, which arrived from Cuba on August 24, 1907.

At one point the indictment relates the old charges made against four members of the so-called "big six," alleging the use of fraudulent devices on the scales used at the docks to short weigh sugar for the purpose of avoiding customs charges. It was in connection with these charges that the government last spring recovered $2,125,000 in duties and penalties.

Arbuckle Bros. Involved.
Just before the announcement of Dondermeyer's arrest it became known that the sugar importing firm of Arbuckle Bros., chief rival of the American Refining Company, had been negotiating for some days the payment of a big sum to the government by way of making good diverted duties on sugar which the authorities contended was under-weighed.

How great the amount will be was not disclosed. It was understood that it will reach several hundred thousand dollars.

JAMAICA IS HIT BY HURRICANE.

Fragmentary Reports Say Damage Through Storm Is Heavy.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 13.—From the fragmentary reports that are arriving here from the countryside, the damage resulting from the hurricane and floods which have raged throughout the island for a week is enormous. The greater portion of the railway and the coast line on the north side of the island have been seriously damaged. Landslides are numerous on the main railroad and communication has been completely cut off. Many bridges also have been carried away.

Property in and around Kingston has suffered severely, the damage sustained thus far being estimated at $700,000. The intake and the main culverts of the city's water supply system have been destroyed.

The recorded rainfall from November 5 to November 10 was 48 inches. There are no signs yet of the weather breaking. All telegraph wires are down.

LOWERS AMERICAN AUTO RECORD

Robertson, in Flat Car, Drives Fifty Miles in 40:14:02.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13.—The automobile races reached their climax here when George H. Robertson, driving a 60 horse-power Fiat, lowered the American track record for 50 miles by four minutes and seven seconds.

The previous record was held by John Alken, who made the distance at Indianapolis in 44:21:02.

Eight cars started in the contest, and five of them finished, despite the record-breaking pace which was set. Louis Strang, piloting his 200 horse-power Fiat, set a terrific pace in the first 17 miles, but in the eighteenth, as he was passing the judges' stand, the tire of his rear right wheel exploded with a report like artillery. This compelled his withdrawal.

Don't Put Off Another Day the Beginning of a Business Education

Don't say that you can succeed in life without it. How many elderly people you have heard say, "Oh, if I could only live my life over again!" The sentiment expressed in these few words is conclusive that it is not LACK OF OPPORTUNITY but FAILURE TO GRASP opportunity that brings so many deep regrets. Think over the past twelve months of your life and you will be amazed at the opportunities you have lost. If you start out in life to win success without the proper business training, which is so essential, no matter what your vocation may be, you will surely be compelled in future years to look back over your career and regret your failure to GRASP YOUR PRESENT OPPORTUNITIES.

It's the Start That Counts

The hard job is to get in the first wedge when you are splitting your way to success. Getting in your wedge in the business world, means getting a position where you will have "a chance to work your way up." To get such a position, where the powers that be can observe your ability and your hard work, where deserved promotion will be prompt, you must be trained to take up the reins of business when you take the position. Business men cannot wait for you to "pick up" this training. You have got to "know how" the minute you tackle the job. Scores of young men and young women have gone out from this school into business life and have been able to secure and hold good positions. Why not you? A few months time spent in this school will give you the training necessary to start right.

Come and see us. Let's talk business.

You can start any day; advance as rapidly as your ability will allow, not being compelled to keep up with or wait for other students. When through you are placed in a good position or your tuition will be refunded. Write, call or phone for our booklet and College Journal.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

I have been for several years past subject to severe attacks of what the medical doctors termed Chronic Inflammation of the Bladder, during which attacks I suffered great pain. On or about January first of this year I had an unusually severe attack and was treated unsuccessfully by local physicians and by a Chicago specialist. I was in such shape after the treatment by the specialist that on my return home my face became partially paralyzed and my left eye badly affected.

I was nearly blind and water constantly streamed from both eyes, was weak, sick and discouraged. As a last resort I groped my way to the office of RAYMOND PUDDICOMBE, Chiropractor, and subjected myself to the Chiropractic Adjustments. After the first adjustment I felt much better. My eyes improved till I have no further sign of trouble, my paralyzed face has resumed its natural condition; where I was getting up every hour of the night to urinate I am now getting up but once and my Kidney and Bladder trouble seems to be removed. I am feeling better than for years and am confident that the Chiropractic Adjustments have done more for me in four weeks than medicine and specialists would ever do. In fact it seems that Chiropractic as compared with medical treatment is the difference between success and failure. I cannot too highly recommend the Chiropractor, who, while making no vain boasts or absurd claims to being a healer, or performing miraculous cures, has by the simple Chiropractic Adjustment so placed my nervous system in condition that I am on the way to perfect health.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A CROSS the street from this pretty little drama is enacted regularly each Sunday afternoon.

At just about three o'clock a nice looking young man walks rapidly up the garden path and bounds up the steps of the house opposite.

That quickly as he goes, the door is always opened before he reaches the top step by some one who has evidently been watching for him.

Before the door closes again often see him stoop down and kiss a little gray-haired lady who opened it for him.

No, he isn't her son.

No, he isn't her nephew. He isn't any relative at all.

He is simply the only one of her son's friends who still goes to the home where they all used to have such jolly times before the boy died.

Most of the others never came after the boy went. Some of them came once or twice.

If this boy ceased to come I think she would feel as if the last link that connected her with the youthful happiness and life of the dear past, had gone.

Is it in your power to give any lonesome father and mother such happiness?

Quite as important as good music and a good caterer for the success of a wedding reception are some definitely appointed "mixers."

At every wedding reception there are of course two distinct groups—his friends and hers. And quite frequently these two groups spend the rest of the evening after they have examined the presents and the bride and enjoyed the "cups" in standing off and glaring helplessly at each other.

The fullness of the jolliest wedding reception I ever attended, the bride told me afterwards she secured by definitely requesting half a dozen of her young friends who were more or less acquainted in both camps to make it their duty to see that every one met every one else.

Perhaps you can't have as expensive a caterer or orchestra or as elaborate a decorator as you would like, but you can make your wedding reception much more jolly and friendly than these affairs usually are by making such an arrangement.

I don't often give recipes in this column, but in honor of Thanksgiving Day I am going to break my rule.

I know of a sauce for Thanksgiving dinner that you will relish with your turkey even more than the world-famed cranberry sauce.

And that sauce is the knowledge that some one who wouldn't otherwise know the difference between Thanksgiving and other days is having some kind of a Thanksgiving dinner through you.

You can find a name one easily enough—the woman who scrubs your office floors, your newboy or bootblack, the washerwoman and her inevitable ten children—indeed there are all too many of that kind of some ones.

Surely, you've got enough to be thankful for to make you want to help some one else be thankful.

And such a good sauce.

Don't just say I'm preaching but try it and see if some one else's Thanksgiving dinner isn't just the best sauce your Thanksgiving dinner ever had.

Frock Of Cloth.

A smart little frock in Nattler blue cloth whose skirt shows novel lines is sketched above. The bodice has a shaped bodice of the underly heavily braided in soutache which corresponds with the band of the latter on the skirt. Shaped cuffs, also heavily braided, and small buttons complete the bodice trimming. The upper portion of the skirt is close fitting, and a flounce is joined to this by a shaped and braided band. A straight band of the same trim the bottom of the flounce. With this was worn a hat of Nattler blue felt with puffed crown of soft-toned velvet.

Mrs. Henry Clews Jr., who was formerly Mrs. Frederick Gebhardt.

Now York.—A clash of temperaments! This is the reason given for the separation of Henry Clews Jr. and his wife, who was formerly Mrs. Frederick Gebhardt. A cable just received told that Mrs. Clews, having a studio in Paris, in the Rue de la Pompe, would come for dinner at his home, 2 bis Villa Sold, Bois de Boulogne, in an artist's atelier, painter's colors and sculptor's clay upon it. This had horrified Mrs. Clews, entering guests in formal regalia.

After dinner he would return to his studio and remain till early dawn with literary and artistic friends and it is related that one of his offenses was that he would sometimes bring these Quarter Latin friends into the corner precincts of his wife's drawing room. Once when she gave a dinner party, he was said to have dressed up as a butler to "wait on" the guests.

When they were married in 1901, Mrs. Frederick Gebhardt (born Louise Hollingsworth Morris of Baltimore) was assumed to be seven years older than Mr. Clews, who was 25. Indeed, according to the lighter chronicles of the day, "socially" was somewhat startled by the marriage. Mrs. Gebhardt, then just divorced, was a woman of the conventional world, with other entanglements and he was a painter, who had refused to take up with his father's business of banking.

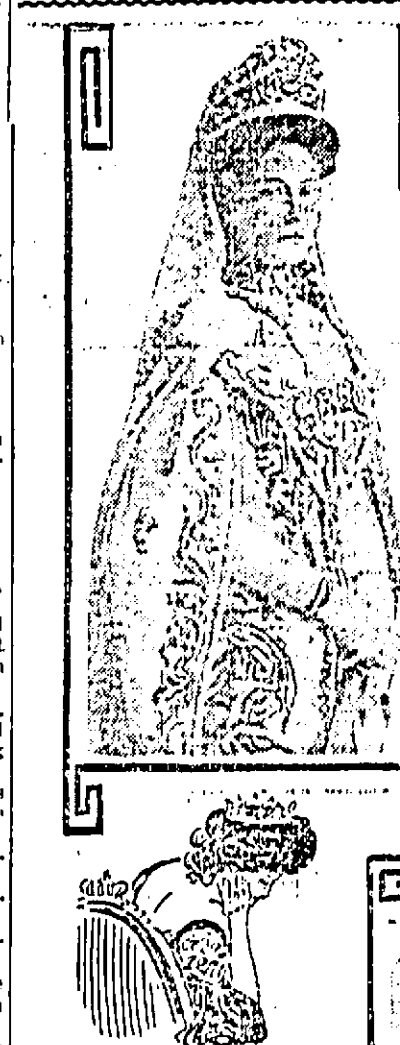

Rumors of conflicts of temperament were heard three years ago. At Bar Harbor on a "date," Mrs. Gebhardt skinned down an elemental country grocer—somebody having remarked that no woman would do it.

It was she who, on another occasion in company with Harry Lehr, jumped into a fountain on the way home from a ball.

At a costume dinner gotten up by her in Baltimore at the Eldorado Hunt club, one of the guests went as a "bathing girl." There were representatives of illustrious Baltimore families in attendance. Some of them withdrew early as the fun grew furious. Finally it was lightly suggested that the "bathing girl" was not a bathing girl until she had gone into water.

Sudden applause for this sentiment caused the party to search for a tub. It was brought in filled with water. Flowers were thrown upon it and into this the "bathing girl" was hilariously doused.

Mrs. Clews it is related, appealed to her young painter-sculptor husband because of the delicate puller of her skin the dark hair and eyes. One admirer has called her "Galatea." Come

London.—Pathetic stories reach London daily from the royal palaces of Europe. While the eyes of the world are centered on the gathering war clouds and read stories of riot, pillage, intrigue and bloodshed, they see little of the real tragedy of the hour. Behind the scenes, in the most pathetic figure of all the queens of Europe, living in constant dread of assassination, the empress thinks not of herself but of the children and the czar. Her nerves are wrecked, her cheeks are growing thinner each day, and the court physicians are almost despairing of ever bringing her back to health. The crown has brought its sorrow and the tugging at her heart chords is wearing out the body.

While a boy, husband is battling for a dinner girl on his throne and the country is torn into factions by the pretension of Ferrer, the one time happy queen of Spain is living in constant dread of a deadly bomb. In public she is the same happy queen of her early wedded life when she and her husband toured the continent in an auto but in the palace she lives in constant dread of falling a victim of some designing attempt. As the situation grows graver in Spain her terror increases. While facing civil strife at home and war abroad, she finds her only solace in her confidence in the boy king who is but wax in the hands of the designing men of state.

The queen of Greece has spent many weeks alone and almost forgotten while the revolt was raging. Now that the uprising seems to be almost at an end it is the queen finds little comfort in the thought. All of Europe knows that the nation faces a civil war and the weakness in court circles is so apparent that the queen is living in absolute retirement. In Portugal another queen is wearing her heart out while the subjects laugh and make merry. In the meantime the unsettled condition continue and queens mourn and live in forgetful while kings seek to steady the ships of state.

She is said to have been attracted by this artist's gallery. Yet her old training stayed by her, and once in Paris the gambols of art students did not appeal to her, and she favored "the dictates of the Faubourg" rather than the eccentricities of Quarter Latin.

Hence the present situation—more or less contributed to, it is said, by her concern with sociology.

UNIVERSITY GROWS
VERY RAPIDLY NOW

Record Breaking Attendance shows
by New Directory Now
In Press.

That 2,195 students are now in attendance at the University of Wisconsin, exclusive of those who have just entered the daily course, is shown by the new directory now in press. This is a gain of 270 students over the number enrolled at the same time last year. The total gain this year is over 280, or more than 11 per cent, because last year 111 academic students in music were included in the list who are now excluded entirely from the school of music by the higher standard of admission.

"The largest gain in numbers is in the college of letters and sciences, which has grown from 1,884 to 2,153, an increase of 269, or over 17 per cent. This marks a more rapid expansion of attendance in the college of letters and sciences than for a number of years, as the average rate of increase has been about 10 per cent.

Many in Agriculture
The college of agriculture again shows a big growth this year, 332 students being registered in the regular courses as against 228 last year, which is a gain of 104, or just 50 per cent.
Of the 332 students in the college of agriculture, 22 are graduates, 255 are in the four-year course, and 55 in the two-year middle course. Just 100 freshmen are enrolled in the four-year course in agriculture.

In the college of medicine 48 students are enrolled, an increase of 18 over last year, or 50 per cent. Of these 17 are registered for second year work, and 31 for first year. The college of pharmacy has 37 students this year, the same number as last year, but in chemistry there are 23 students, an increase of 20, or over 50 per cent. The course in commerce has 238 students this year, an increase of 32, or over 15 per cent.

Many Sophomores and Juniors
A comparison of the statistics of the enrollment by classes shows that the largest gain is in the junior class, which numbers 707 this year, as against 550 last year, an increase of 28 per cent. Next in point of growth is the sophomore class, with 829 students, an increase of over 20 per cent.
The increase in both these classes is largely accounted for by the many students who have entered the university with advanced standing from other colleges. The senior class has 527, and the freshman class 933. In the graduate school 259 are entered, an increase of 20 per cent.

A large body of transfer students kings with A-B-C's. 250.

CASES ARGUED IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

Several Important Matters Were Taken Under Adjudication by Judge Grimm Yesterday Afternoon.

In circuit court yesterday afternoon
Mrs. Augusta M. Hoehner of Clinton secured a divorce from John C. O.
Hoehner on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. P. Mabel Reed of Deloit was also granted a divorce decree on a plea of non-support.

Indigent pleading the title was ordered in the case of George H.
Gibbs vs. George Chittot et al, and Fred H. Weaver vs. Amos S. Shipson et al.

Motion to set aside the verdict of $150 for the plaintiff in the case of William Denoyer vs. the First National at Accident Insurance company was argued and taken under advisement.

Ex-Mayor J. F. Hutchinson's action against the city of Janesville to recover for services on the board of review was argued by Attorney C. W.
Reeder and City Attorney H. L. Maxfield and taken under advisement.

Three cases which will be tried by the jury next week are: the personal injury action of Abbie Selman, administratrix, vs. the C. & N. W. Ry.
Co.; the $10,000 damage action brought by August Buege, an evaporator on Sept. 20, 1927, against the Rock County Sugar Co.; and the suit on a note brought by C. S. Jackson, trustee of the estate of the late W. T.
Van Kirk, against J. E. Imman. This latter action has been heard three times in the circuit court and appealed to the supreme court where decisions were twice reversed.

also a possibility of the boys of the high school organizing a team providing the newly promulgated law, which makes a player ineligible to play on a high school team who plays on any other team, applies only to football.
Several members of the first team of the high school are playing with out-

Funeral services for Jacob Truckenbrod, who died at the home of his son, W. M. Truckenbrod, last Thursday, were held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The next important matter to be taken up by the board will be the location of the county training school for teachers. It is expected that there will be considerable rivalry between this city and Broadhead over the permanent placing of the school.

Mrs. John Weiss died at her home in Adrian from heart trouble, from which she has been troubled for several years. A husband and family of chilcareful training and instruction they have received from Mr. Jenny.

TESTED BRIDGES OF EIGHT RAILROADS

Dean Turneure of State University Makes 15,000 Tests with New Invention—Plans to Make Bridges Safe with Less Steel.

After making 15,000 tests on 50 railway bridges on the lines of eight different railroad systems of the country,
Dean Turneure of the University of Wisconsin is now compiling data which it is expected will entirely eliminate the element of guess work in allowing for speed strain in bridge design.

One of the greatest problems in bridge engineering is that of making the structure absolutely safe with the maximum economy in materials.
Heretofore there has been little actual data on the comparative effects of speeds on the different parts of bridges, so that allowance for such strain had to be made largely by guess. A few experiments were made with expensive machinery imported from Germany, including those of Dean Turneure in 1907 on the St.
Paul road, but the extreme difficulty and expense prevented further investigation until Dean Turneure invented a machine of his own for the work.

Invented New Machine
Dean Turneure's invention is an electrical instrument which makes an autographic record on a strip of paper of every slightest bending, shortening or stretching of the part of the bridge to which it is attached, when a train is crossing the bridge. Twelve duplicates of the machine were made in the shops of the college of engineering, and used simultaneously on different parts of the bridge, given accurate data for comparison.

Since it seems likely that not all of the funds of $9,000 subscribed by American railroads to defray the expense of the investigation will be used in this series of tests, it is planned to start a second series of experiments involving a different feature of design. For this work Dean Turneure will invent another type of apparatus, to be made this winter in the university shops.

Will Report to American Engineers
The results of the tests, as shown by the data worked out from a study of the 15,000 diagrams made by the autographic extensometer, will be presented in a report by Dean Turn-eure to the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way association at its annual meeting in Chicago next March. The various railroads represented in the association furnished test trains, composed of an engine and heavily loaded cars, to be run at increasing speeds over the bridges on their lines. Since speed determines from 25 to 50 per cent of the strain on a bridge, these tests were of great importance.

The fifty bridges tested varied from 50 to 400 feet in length, and included those of the Santa Fe, Rock Island,
C. & N. W., St. P., Nickel Plate, C. & E.

Q., Norfolk and Western, Pennsylvania, and New York Central lines.

On the New York Central road opportunity was given for experimenting with one of the new electrical incandescent lamps as is operated on the New York Terminal.

Prof. Turneure was assisted in the field work by Prof. W. S. Kinn, E. E.
Parker, O. L. Kowalski, and J. B. Kommeyer of the University of Wisconsin, and by Prof. C. L. Candall, Prof. E.
W. Rettger, and A. C. Trebn of Cornell.

Practically nothing more will be except to take it out of the water and store it for the winter. That it was a success was proven by the trials it was given and next year the inventor plans to build another boat. The craft built this year was of course a good deal of an experiment but even at that it met all the hopes and expecta-

Waltham Watches

A Warning

Mail order houses in Chicago and other cities who list Waltham Watches do so in spite of the fact that neither the Waltham Watch Company nor its customers will sell them our watches at all. Mail order houses cannot be equipped to sell good watches. If you want a watch, go to a retail jeweler; he knows how to regulate it, how to correct any little damage that may have come to it after leaving the factory and he will get it started right. A watch requires a personal service that no mail order house can give. It needs the jeweler, who knows his trade, to do this.

"Like Jiminy," ventured Beth with a dubious air, casting about on the spur of the moment thinking of some other she knew who would fit the description.

"Like Jiminy," assented Emma emphatically.

"None to speak of," seconded Beth, pursing her lips deprecatingly.

"Aside from that, though," conceded Mrs. Harris, "I must say Jiminy's a real good man and most obliging. He can't help his upbringing."

"How about Captain Williams?" questioned Emma. "How would you class him?"

"My dear," answered her mother, "you wouldn't put him in the same class with Jiminy—I mean socially. He's so rich! I wouldn't be surprised if he were several times a millionaire. Remember, he has two automobiles. And the handsome way he treated you! Why, he crossed out the $10,000 that abduction stole as though it were a matter of 10 cents."

"A man's true wealth is the good he does in this world, mother, according to Mohammed."

"That is how it may have appeared to that foreign prophet in the year 1," retorted Mrs. Harris with a tone of finality, "but in this age of horse sense in the United States a million dollars in the bank is the real standard of wealth. With money you can do everything. If you have plenty of it you can do plenty of good, and everybody else will sit on the fence and elp, but if you haven't any you're no good to yourself, can do no good to others, and everybody else will get down from the fence to kick you."

Left to his own devices, Brooks took a survey of the position in which he found himself, and his conclusion was not without gratification to him. The clean "bill of health" she had been the means of obtaining for him from Captain Williams had in fact left at his free disposal as his own property several hundred dollars from his stealings and from his last "plunge" on the horses, which had been a winning one. Then there was the furniture. The piano was supposed to be Emma's, and he felt sure she would send for it, but he had no intention of surrendering it. Not one stick, not one penny, would she ever get out of him after the way in which she had treated him. The very day after her departure he sold the instrument to the piano house from which it had been purchased.

Within three days he had removed from the hotel where they had lived in state for such a brief period and transferred such furniture as he required to one room in a bachelor apartment house. The rest he disposed of for cash. He was a bachelor again to all intents and purposes, and he resolved to enjoy his liberty to the full. He had had enough of married life, with its cares and the discipline of restraint it imposed. Once more he was "one of the boys." To make his position unmistakable and discourage any disposition on his wife's part to return to him he forwarded, care of her mother, her portrait, that had been conspicuous on the parlor mantel, after taking it from the gilded frame in which it had stood. On the back of it he wrote a verse of an old song:

My wife she ran away from me
Some two or three weeks ago,
And now she wants to come back again,
But I tell her it's no use.

"Once bit twice shy," is my reply,
And if it was to rain
Cats and dogs and muskies and frogs
I'd never have her back again.

There was no word of explanation beyond this insulting doggerel, and he was careful not to give his address. He chuckled as he put it in the letter box. At times he was a little uneasy lest she should seek to discover his whereabouts for the purpose of making a claim for support, but as the weeks wore on and nothing was heard from her he became reassured. He had had little difficulty in procuring work, thanks to Captain Williams' note accepting his resignation, and soon was established as assistant to the receiving teller in a bank with a salary of $25 a week. With this and the money already in his possession he deemed himself rich, and his liberal optimism obtained the ascendancy once more in his usual extravagant form. But his escape from arrest had been a lesson that had sunk in deeply. He vowed never again under any circumstances to "borrow" from the funds he handled in the course of his duties. He eschewed horse racing also, knowing that if the bank officials became aware that he was gambling he would lose his place that very instant.

After awhile his fellow employees noticed that Brooks, the spry, genial teller, who had won the good will of everybody, as he had in the general office of the Latin-American Steamship company, manifested a tendency toward moroseness; that his face at times assumed an expression of melancholy. Despite his love of self, he was of those natures which do not thrive in solitude.

He never had cared much for the companionship of men. His inclination always had been toward that of the opposite sex. Accustomed also as he had been for so long to the consolations of home life, to the thoughtful, affectionate ministrations and bright presence of Emma, he was bound sooner or later to miss her.

"There's nothing in this living alone," the avowed cynic once night after he had spent an evening at the theater with two sociable fellow clerks and he gazed around his silent, cheerless bedroom. Although he had not at any time loved Emma with that ineffable passion which is the golden ladder upon which the soul mounts to heaven, yet she had filled a larger place in his heart than he had ever had any complete idea of prior to her absence. His sentiment, fostered by his selfishness, revived with violence under his introspection. He yearned for Emma's smile of greeting and the kiss that accompanied it at his homecoming, for the numberless sweet attentions she had lavished upon him.

How pretty she was, how gentle! How sweetly she had put up with his ill humor! She was different from any of the girls and women he had ever been acquainted with. He was sorry he had sent the photograph, not alone because he felt that he had made gratuitously a false move, but because he wished he had kept it for himself. There was not one personal object remaining that had belonged to her. The little ornaments she had liked, her clothes, the trinkets she had left behind, he had disposed of in his haste to get rid of everything that could recall her or to which she might lay claim.

He wondered if she, too, was sorry for their separation. She must be. How could she live under the eternal nagging and fault finding of her mother and the loving proclivities of Beth and not long to return to the independence of her own home?

She had loved him. His memory evoked the distant vision of her frail, lithe form clinging to him as she gazed up into his eyes, her own aglow with the glory of her adoration and its delicious intensity. He felt the libelous pulsations of her heart throbbing against him, its paeon of passion; he heard, too, in fancy the red lips murmur her soul's ecstasy in words of flame and beauty, felt the thrill that shivered through him as his fingers threaded endlessly the shimmering cloud of her tresses. That was long ago in their early possession of each other, when she had awakened to knowledge of herself and had worshipped him as a god, fount of joy and light for her on earth.

This transcendent passion had not found in him the responsiveness it craved and which alone could nourish it. Emma had been an enigma to him often, a riddle that had bored him at times. His blunted senses, sharpened by desire of her, perceived that stupidly, ignorantly, he had dissipated a treasure beyond price.

But, remembering what he had been to her and that she was still his wife, he believed that a reconciliation could be brought about. Sentiment and desire took command with advisability; selfishness weighed the pros and cons. In the end sentiment and desire, being the stronger, adjusted objections to their own point of view. But even then it was some time before he could summon up courage enough to take any steps in the matter.

Summer had given place to winter and returned again when Emma had left him. In all that time he had not heard from or of her. He had made no attempt to see Jiminy Smith or any of his former friends and associates.

Now he bent his thoughts upon how best to effect the rapprochement. Should he write Emma, expressing his contrition and begging her forgiveness? His pride stiffened at this proposition. Should he write and request an interview with her? If he could see her he believed he would have little trouble in persuading her. But, counseled by her hateful mother, who always had despised him, she might refuse to see him. Perhaps the best way would be to approach her through some one else. The only person he knew of who by any possibility could act as intermediary was Jiminy Smith, the general utility man.

Regulating Jiminy's services did not appeal to him. He had long been jealous of his prosperity and of the fact that he had once been a suitor for Jiminy's. "Although jealousy on account of the latter circumstance was rather the outcome of envy of his success in business, nevertheless Jiminy was indispensable, and the more Brooks realized this the higher he came the degree of favor to which he restored him. It had been bad policy not to keep in touch with Jiminy, a serious mistake. Smith, however, was such an "easy," obliging, warm-hearted fellow that there would be no difficulty in squaring things with him and getting him to act as go-between. He resolved to call on Jiminy.
